SunEdison Announces Capital Raise

Goldman Sachs as Lead Investor

June 15, 2006 - SunEdison announced today that it has closed a private equity round of investment with Goldman Sachs as the lead investor. MissionPoint Capital Partners and Allco Finance Group also invested in this round. SunEdison provides innovative solar energy solutions to large commercial and institutional customers to help manage their energy costs.

"We believe that SunEdison's platform to deploy large-scale commercial solar electric systems will help transform the US solar market and drive growth for many years to come", says Alan Waxman, Managing Director at Goldman Sachs.

According to Jigar Shah, CEO of SunEdison, this financing round will allow the company to "build our financial strength so that we can better serve our customers' energy needs." "Securing an equity partnership with Goldman Sachs, Wall Street's leader in alternative energy investing, speaks volumes about the strength of our energy offerings and to Goldman Sachs' commitment to the sector."

SunEdison LLC headquartered in Baltimore, Maryland, offers clients an innovative set of financial solutions based around solar technologies, to meet the energy needs of its clients.
